MISCELLANEOUS.

DR STORM'S SCOTCH COUGH CANDY.

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED,
Druggists of St. Louis, do hereby Certify,

THAT the following is a correct statement of the amount of our sales of the preparation known as DR. STORM'S SCOTCH COUGH CANDY, prepared from his original recipe, by HAMILTON WADE, of Saint Louis; and we take pleasure in saying that it has given general satisfaction to those of our customers who have used it, as a remedy for diseases of the chest and lungs:

G W Westbrook,	408	do
Snow & Quirk,	450	do
James McGuire,	283	do

Saint Louis, March 13, 1847

☞ In addition to the above, 300 packages were sold by James M Corse; 480 by Dr A Pigot; 200 by Edward Brooks; 432 by Bacon and Hyde; 200 by John Bunding; 75 by Dr. Donaldson; by Dr A Willing 75; and 300 by Wand W Kirkpatrick—which, together with the sales by the wholesale agents, prove that this article is altogether superior to any other remedy ever offered for Consumption.

 This is the only Medicated Candy in the United States that will not impair by exposure to the atmosphere. Merchants would do well to bear this in mind when making their purchases. When any loss is sustained from dampness, the proprietor will bear it.

Price, One Dime per Roll; Three Rolls for 25 Cents; or $1 per dozen.

☞ A liberal discount made to Country Merchants. For sale by Druggists and Country Merchants generally throughout the U. States and the Canadas.

The Candy is neatly put up, with directions for use. A handsome engraving of the Scottish Coat of Arms, and the written signature of Hamilton Wade, [proprietor] is on the outside wrapper of each roll and package.

Messrs. BARNARD, BRO & CO. wholesale Druggists, 140 Main street, Saint Louis, Mo, are the General Agents. Orders from the country, or applications for agency, directed to them, will meet with prompt attention.

Peter Gray and Lizzyanny Quirl.

I'll tell you of a nice young man,
Whose name was Peter Gray;
The State where Peter Gray was born,
Was Pennsylva-ni-a.

This Peter he did fall in love
All with a nice young girl,
The name of her, I'm positive,
Was Lizzyanny Quirl.

When they were going to be wed,
Her father he said "No!"
And brutally did send her off
Beyond the O-hi-o.

When Peter heard his love was lost,
He knew not what to say—
He'd half a mind to jump into
The Susquehan-na-a.

But he went trading to the West,
For furs and other skins,
And there was caught and killed and drest
By bloody In-gi-ins

When Lizzyanny heard the news,
She straightway went to bed,
And never did get up again
Until she di-ed.

Ye fathers all, a warning take,
Each one as has a girl,
And think upon poor Peter Gray
And Lizzyanny Quirl.

From the London Examiner.

The Story of a Picture.

M. d'Amivon, who had once filled the situation of steward in the household of the Prince de Conti, now assumed all the airs of a grand seigneur taking possession of his castle, and was especially desirous of passing himself off as an enlightened amateur of painting.

Louise, who had been asked by her brother, a few days before, to assist him in unpacking some pictures, had perceived in the corner of one amongst them the signature, "Louis and Antoine Lenain," and had been struck by the resemblance borne by some figures in the group to those of the Herbelot family.

The young artists having always retained a place in the kindly remembrance of the good people of the village, Louise had frequently heard them spoken of, and when the well known names met her eye in the corner of the canvass, it at once occurred to her that this painting, which from the care bestowed upon it, she concluded was greatly prized by its owner, must be the product of their pencils.

It was upon this thought she now acted.—With breathless haste, she hurried to the chateau, and begged to be allowed to speak to M. d'Amivon. She was introduced into the very apartment in which hung the painting executed by the brothers Lenain.

"Sir," said the young girl, timidly, "forgive me if I am making too bold with you, but will you tell me whether that picture is worth a great deal?"

"Yes indeed it is, my good girl," replid M. d'Amivon, "but what makes you feel any interest in the subject?"

Louise hesitated for a moment, and then said, "Because I thought, sir, that if you set a great value by it, you might wish to buy another, painted by the same artists, and we have one in our village which I am quite sure is as good, if not better."

"Indeed! are you sure of that? I am afraid you are no great connoisseur of painting. But where could I see this one you praise so much, and form my own judgment on the matter?"

"At M. Herbelot's forge, sir, if you please to come there to-morrow at noon."

"Very well; I shall be there to-morrow, by twelve o'clock. You may tell him so, if you like."

Louise Danchet made a low curtsey, and retired, leaving M. Amivon equally surprised at her good manners, and the singularity of a painting by the brothers Lenain being offered for sale at a blacksmith shop!

Louise at first only confided her project to the mother of her betrothed; for she knew well that the good blacksmith valued his picture so much that he would rather sell his bed from under him than part with it. He was to go next day at noon, with his three sons, to the village notary, to arrange matters for the sale of his forge, as well as of the little farm belonging to his eldest son; Louise was therefore, pretty sure that the coast would be clear at that hour, and that M d'Amivon might examine the painting at his leisure.

Punctual to his appointed time, the banker duly arrived at the forge at twelve o'clock and was ushered by Madame Herbelot and Louise into the best parlor, where the portrait of the family group had now hung for five and twenty years.

At the first glance, M. d'Amivon allowed that this was yet a finer painting than the one he possessed.

"But how in the name of wonder," he exclaimed, "did you happen to acquire such a treasure?"

Madame Herbelot, in a simple and touching manner, related the history of the young artists' stay amongst them, of their gratitude for the kindness they had received, the birth of the little Antonie, and the family portrait which his god-father had left him as a parting gift, and then with tears she told how this beloved child was in the peril of death, and how, for his sake, they were going to give up the house where they had passed so many years in peace and happiness. The banker, who, though a little pompous and self-sufficient, was, in truth, a kind-hearted man, listened with deep interest to her tale, and when the poor mother and affianced bride at length cast themselves at his feet and implored him with the utmost earnestness to purchase the painting for six thousand francs—he soon demanded for the young man's ransom—he raised them with a smile, and said:

"You need not waste so many entreaties on the matter, my goods friends. This painting is worth eight thousand francs, and I cannot in consequence, give less for it. You may tell Herbelot to come to my house for that sum as soon as he likes."

The joy of the two poor women on hearing this offer may more readily be conceived than described. All that now remained to be done was to persuade the smith to part with his favorite picture. There was a hard struggle in the poor man's mind; as far as he himself was concerned, he would almost have given up anything else; but when he thought of his wife and children about to be driven from their home, and his captive son waiting, with an anxious heart, for the sum which was to ransom him from death, he no longer hesitated, but hastened with the painting to the Chateau de Val—.

Here, a new source of consolation awaited him. M. d'Amivon happened to have a young artist staying in his house, who, seeing the poor man's grief at parting with the cherished portrait, kindly offered to copy it for him during his leisure hours.

That very evening notice was given to the village notary to countermand the sale of the forge; and the six thousand francs, duly confided to the farmer-general, were on their way to Algiers, while the remaining two thousand were laid aside for the use of the expected captive.

A few weeks after these occurrences had taken place, a joyous and high hearted soldier was seated in the old family parlor at the forge. The well known painting no longer adorned its walls, but a happy group, seated around the well covered table, and listening with delight to the soldier's tales, felt they could have sacrificed much more than this, to see this beloved son and brother once again amongst them. Louise Danchet, as you may readily suppose, formed one of the party, nor was the young soldier slow in claiming her long pledged promise to become one day his bride.

In the midst of all this happiness, however, the thought of their kind benefactors continually presented itself to their minds, with an earnest longing to see them once more, and tell them how much they owed them.

"Well," exclaimed Antoine Herbelot, a few days before the time appointed for his union with Louise, "I do not see how we could better employ a part of that two thousand francs which remained after my ransom was paid, than setting out for Paris to see the good brothers Lenain, and invite them to the wedding."

This proposition met with universal favor, and the whole family, without delay, hastened to Paris, to search for their early friends. It was not difficult to discover them, for they were well known to fame, and had been made members of the Royal Academy of Painting; but this change had made no alteration in their kindly simplicity of heart, and they welcomed the worthy blacksmith and his family with open arms.

Their god-son soon informed them of the history of their christening gift, and asked them, as a crowning favor, to visit once more their quiet village, and grace his approaching marriage with their much desired presence.

The invitation was gladly accepted, and not many days afterwards, the whole party returned to the Cambresis; nor did any long period elapse before a joyous peal of bells announced that the ransomed solier and Louise Danchet were at last united for life. We need not say that many a grateful look rested upon the two painters during that festive day, and that theirs were not the least happy amongst the many joyous hearts there assembled.

This little history, we would beg to assure our readers, is no untrue tale. It is well know in the Cambresis, where it is told by many a winter hearth.

The painting of the "Blacksmith and his Family" was purchased from M. d'Amivon by the Prince de Conti, who paid ten thousand francs for it. At length, from hand to hand, it passed into the Royal collection, and we feel assured that should any of our readers hereafter wander through the noble galleries of the Douvre, they will pause to gaze with more than artistic interest on the painting which was once a "Soldier's Ransom."

Preach Small.—"Mother," said a little girl, seven years old, "I could not understand our minister to-day, he said so many hard words. I wish he would preach so that little girls could understand him. Won't he, mother?"

"Yes, I think so, if we ask him."

Soon after, her father saw her going over to the minister's.

"Where are you going, Emma?"

"I am going over to Mr. ———'s, to ask him to preach small!"

Temperance League.—A temperance league has been organized in Buffalo, with a capital of $200,000 or upwards, which shall consist of equal shares of one hundred dollars each. To raise this sum every person becoming a member shall give his note for one share or more without interest. The fund thus raised shall be subject to an equal taxation sufficient to defray expenses for the suppression of the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and gambling. Constitution and By Laws were adopted, officers appointed, and every provision made to carry the war into Africa, against the sale of intoxicating drinks.

Western Virginia wants and insists upon having a representation provided solely upon the white population. Eastern Virginia insists, that blacks to some extent shall be counted as well as whites. This long controversy before the convention, is likely to be settled, it is said, by adopting the mixed basis for the Senate, and the pure white basis for the House.

One hundred and thirteen children are in the Cincinnati Orphan Asylum.

Bliss' Compound Cod Liver Oil Candy.—Consumptive persons are, in general, dreadfully annoyed with a propensity to cough; a constant tickling in the throat. The usual medicines fail to give any relief in these cases, and it was not until the introduction of Bliss' Candy, that any really good article could be prescribed for their difficulties. This Candy has proved of incalculable service in very many cases within the knowledge of the proprietor. But to secure the public from harm in the way of spurious articles, he has got up a new and very beautiful wrapper, accompanied by a fac-simile of his signature. The wrapper will be readily recognized from its affording a representation of the Cod-fisheries and the manner of extracting the Oil from the livers of the fish. For sale by S. WEDN'SDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 23.

THE CROPS.—The editor of the Watertown Register writes:

A hasty trip down the Valley, a short distance, a week or two ago, gave us high hopes that the wheat crop would be a fair one, but we are reluctantly compelled to acknowledge our disappointment as reports reach us from the north, northwest and southwest. Many of the farmers have ploughed up their sowed ground and have put in spring grain.

Mr. Nickerson stated to us that by accident a small patch of his wheat was covered with straw last fall. The piece was protected, comes up this spring, as bright and fair as any wheat he ever saw, and thinks he might have spread his refuse straw over a piece of ten acres and realized a full crop.—We think this idea worthy of the consideration of our farming community, and we hope to see it tried the coming season. There is no doubt of the benefit to be derived from this spreading of straw over the newly sowed crop not only in protecting it from the severity of our winters, but in returning to the soil a portion of that constituent of the wheat plant which the previous crop drew from the earth. We are becoming daily more convinced of the necessity of a more thorough mode of cultivating our lands if we expect to realize a fair profit.

☞ By the railroad collision at Geneva, N. Y., the 17th inst., Mr. S. B. Scott, of Kenosha, had both legs broken, and Mr. Petrie of Kenosha, one leg broken.

In middle Illinois the prospects of the wheat crop are poor, but of the fruit crop very good.

CONNECTICUT.—The Editor of the Hartford Republican thinks the House will be 108 Whigs, 109 Democrats and 7 Free Soilers.—In the Senate 12 Whigs—two of whom were nominated and voted for by Free Soilers—8 Democrats and one Free Soiler. In joint Ballot 120 Whigs, 117 Democrats, and 8 Free Soilers.

☞ The ladies of Manitowoc yesterday formed a society to improve the public square. Wish the Milwaukee ladies had a public square to improve! But, alas! there is not land enough for such a purpose in this city!

APOLOGETIC.—The Prairie Herald, in speaking of Leahey's efforts at Chicago, compliments him thus:

Persons educated as priests in the Romish religion, though truly converted, frequently carry with them so much of the "old man" as to be in a great measure unfitted to influence those of their former faith.

The "old man" seemed to have taken possession of all there was of him, while here, and physically there was a great deal of the proper material for the "old leaven" to work in. When the "old man" is carried off, we wonder what will become of the Ex-Monk?

☞ Thirty-three prisoners were brought into Detroit, on the cars Saturday, from Leoni, Michigan Centre and Jackson, accused of having set fire to the Freight Depot in Detroit, the depot in Jackson, obstructing the passage of the trains, &c. The Detroit Tribune gives the names of the prisoners. They were supposed to be a gang of counterfeiters.

A LESSON FOR GIRLS.—An intelligent gentleman of fortune, says the Bangor Whig, visited a country village in Maine, not far from Bangor, and was hospitably entertained and lodged by a gentleman having three daughters—two of whom in rich dresses, entertained the distinguished stranger in the parlor, while one kept herself in the kitchen, assisting her mother in preparing the food, and setting the table for tea, and after supper, in doing the work till it was finally completed, when she also joined her sisters in the parlor for the remainder of the evening. The next morning the same daughter was again early in the kitchen, while the other two were in the parlor. The gentleman, like Franklin, possessed a discriminating mind—was a close observer of the habits of the young ladies—watched an opportunity, and whispered something in the ear of the industrious one, and then left for a time; but revisited the same family, and in about year, the young lady of the kitchen was conveyed to Boston, the wife of the same gentleman visitor, where she now resides at an elegant mansion. The gentleman, whose fortune she shares, she won by a judicious deportment, and well directed industry.

A Windmill on a new Principle.—The Janesville Gazette says that the Rev. O. F. Comfort, of that place, has invented a windmill which has two modes of regulating power, one by means of friction, and the other by reaction. It will be useful in propelling millstones, and in drawing water from the deep wells of the prairies. Mills for the latter purpose can be constructed for $15. A patent right is to be taken out immediately.

Boston, April 18.

The accounts from Plymouth state that the loss to property by the gale is from $60,000 to $90,000. Bridges have been swept away and property of all kinds been carried off.—At Marshfield and Kingston similar losses occurred.

Mr. Bennett, keeper of Minot light house has just arrived at Cohasset, and reports that the light house is gone to the foundation, and thinks the rock was split by the force of a single sea of unusual strength.

The light was last seen burning on Wednesday night at ten o'clock, when the bell was heard. The bodies of the 2 assistant keepers have not been recovered.

Our readers will remember the account of this Light House we published two months ago.

St. Louis, April 22.

Mr. Fletcher Williams, the Lacon mail robber, was taken back yesterday morning by Mr. Fairwether, mail agent. A man named Watson was found on Sunday night lying in the levee near Michigan street, so fatally wounded in the abdomen, that a portion of the entrails protruded. He says he is totally ignorant of the cause which led to this attack upon him, and does not even know the person who inflicted the wound. His statement is as follows:

He was walking the levee alone about 2 o'clock, when a man came up to him, and without saying a word struck him on the face with his hand, upon which he stepped forward, and demanded the reason for the assault. The man drew a knife and stabbed him, after which he ran away. The condition of Watson is very precarious.

Peoria, April 22.

The result of the election held here yesterday, for and against the subscription of $75,000 for a Railroad to Burlington, Iowa, was taken as follows: 705 for—9 against.

FAST PRINTING PRESSES.—Mr. Taggart has invented a powerful printing press, adapted to a sheet of any size, by which both sides can be printed at once, giving from one to two impressions in a second, and the cost of which will not exceed five hundred dollars. The model looks as though the invention was practicable. Mr. T. has taken his model to New York, to exhibit to Mr. Bruce.

Mr. Lucius T. Guernsey, of Montpelier, Vt., an experienced and ingenius printer, has invented and brought into successful operation a powerful printing press, which, with less than half the cost, promises all the results of the great power now used in publishing our largest class of papers.

Yankee ingenuity will never permit the necessity of paying ten or twelve thousand dollars for a "fast press" to exist long.—Boston Post.

☞ John McLean, of Ohio, in a recent letter, says with reference to unconstitutional laws "an unconstitutional act of Congress imposes no obligation on a State, or the people of a State, and may be resisted by an individual or a community. No one, I believe, will controvert this.'

The projectors of the tunnel through Hoosac Mountain, in Massachusetts, which is to be four miles long, maintain that, with the late improvements in cutting rocks, the work can be done for less than two millions of dollars, and in less than two years. It would enable the journey from Boston to Albany, to be made in six hours, which now requires eleven.

It is not remembered, says a Massachusetts print, that the Spring in the Connecticut River Valley, was ever so far advanced as now at the middle of April. The fields have the green of May, and the buds on the fruit and forest trees are just ready to burst into leaf and flower.

ENGLISH GRAIN TRADE.—The following review of the grain trade for the week ending March 28th, is taken from the London Shipping Gazette:

The supplies of grain from abroad have fallen off materially since our last, the arrivals from the south and east have been quite moderate, and little having reached us from the Northern ports of Europe.

Of flour, however, a considerable quantity has again been received from France, and arrivals of that article into Liverpool from the U. S., exceeded 40,000 bbls. the week ending 24th of March. The deliverance of home growers had been small, owing to the unfavorable weather of the previous fortnight.

We can notice no symptoms on the part of purchasers of making speculative investments. The somewhat firmer tone which the corn trade has assumed during the last two or three weeks, has already had more or less influence on the near continental markets and quotations have undergone a relatively greater rise abroad than in this country.

The arrivals of wheat coastwise into the port of London have been unusually small this week, only 4,070 qrs. The total quantity of wheat reported from abroad up to last night, amounted to only 4,770 qrs. There is, however, too large a stock in granary and on ship board at this port, to allow the falling off in the supply to produce any immediate influence.

The top price of town made flour has become rather unsettled, some of the millers have manifested a disposition to give way 1s per sack to meet French competition.

GREAT WORK ON CIVILIZATION.

This valuable work, has just arrived at

C. OTT'S BOOKSTORE.

It is the work of the age. From a large number of liberal and highly complimentary notices of this work, from the religious and secular press, we only select the following:

"This admirable work is at length before us, and we hasten to inform our readers of the valuable addition, which has thus been made to the Literature of our country. The work is by far the most important of its kind, ever published in this country. It is in fact a complete library in itself, condensed and so arranged as to bring the whole question within the grasp of the humblest reader. It appears most appropriately at the present time, and will, no doubt, prove an instrument of great efficacy in the work of diffusing sound doctrines on the matters of which it treats"—Truth Teller. april 22

A P[illegible] Lid.—A josey, who has [illegible] dancing attendance over at the "Eagle" [illegible] three days, came up to the Police office this morning, to take measures for the recovery of a fine watch that one of the "fair [illegible]" over there had filched or bargained from [illegible] he was so drunk as not to know which. [illegible] he refused to give bail to appear at next [illegible] of court, as evidence to convict the par-[illegible] of the violation of another statute, the [illegible] relief was denied him, on the ground, we suppose that "those who dance should pay the fiddler."

An Item.—Friend Crummey made his appearance on the streets this morning, on horseback, "booted and spurred" and astride of a "full-blooded" Spanish saddle, silver mounted and gold spurs. It was procured by his brother, in California. Jim looked like a regular rank-a-horse.

Curious.—On the the West side of Water Street, at the corner of Wisconsin, where excavations have been made for Ludington's new block, it is as dry as a powder horn, while just across the street, and from two to five feet higher, in digging for the foundation water was found so deep that the workmen were obliged to dig a drain to carry it off, before they could prosecute their labors.

The "Gum" Game.—Medbury, over on the corner, is opening a spruce lot of clarified and tamarack gum, for those who do a "gumming" business.

Sold out.—J. K. Sprague wishes "all passengers as hasn't paid their fare, to call at the cap'ns office and settle !"

Canary Birds—Moulting.—As a very large number of our lady readers are peculiarly attached to the canary bird, and experience a particular delight in caring for their wants, we take the following from Gardener's Chronicle, as serviceable to them:

"When a canary moults, which is generally in July or August, according to the heat of the weather—all you need do is, to keep him quiet and free from draughts. Being a cheerful, lively bird, there is no need to have him covered up, but do not let him be unduly excited. Give him a very small quantity of raw beef, scraped and moistened with cold water, once a week; occasionally a little yolk of hard boiled egg; and now and then a piece of sponge-cake, and ripe chickweed in full flower. Nature will do the rest, and present your pet with a handsome new coat, that will keep him "spruce," and last him a full year. Mind and trim his claws when they are too long. Use sharp scissors always; a knife, never. In handling, let him lie as passive as possible; so that your hand may not press unduly on any part of his little body. After the first operation, he will understand all about it, and cheerfully submit to be so "trimmed."

How to do Business—Advertise !—He is a shrewd man who advertises. This is proberbial the world over. It is simply putting your goods, wares, merits, plans, suggestions, bargains, &c., into the eyes of the universal public. Every body reads the papers now a days. A good advertisement is like taking every man and woman in society by the vest, button-hole or arm, and privately whispering to them important matters. Advertise, then. Do it generously. Spend five dollars and get twenty. Do it judiciously, and you are sure to make money by it.

Tupper Among the Cherokees.—We perceive by the Cherokee Advocate, published at Tahlequah, the Capitol of the Cherokee Nation, that at the request of Mr. Robert Dodge, of this city, the friend of the great Tupper, the Hymn for all Nations, written by that poet and philosopher, to be sung in grand concert at the World's Fair, has been translated into Cherokee. Mr Dodge, says the Editor of the Advocate, intends sending this translation to the World's Fair.—[New York Tribune.

Erie Raid Road Finished.—The last rail was laid on this road on Tuesday the 15th, and the cars passed over it. This is a great event. On the 1st of May, the cars will commence regular trips.—Clev. True Dem.

Suicide—A German committed suicide by jumping from the steamer Empire, yesterday, and drowning himself. He had lived in Utica, N. Y., and was on his way west. He had lost his trunk containing a large amount of money, between Utica and Buffalo, and this, it is supposed drove him mad.—Clev. True Dem.

The reward of $10,000 offered by the Legislature of Massachusetts for the discovery of a cure for the potatoe rot, has been claimed by Mr. Joshua F. Hatch, of Dorchester. His remedy consists of ground charcoal mixed with sulphate of lime.

Tariff.—This puzzling name is derived from the town of Tarifa, at the mouth of the straits of Gibraltar. It was the last strong hold which the Moors disputed with the Christians; and when the former held possession of both the pillars of Hercules, it was here that they levied contributions for vessels entering the Mediteranean, whence the generic name.

Three hundred dollars reward has been offered for the detection of the person or persons who attempted to blow up the Globe Hotel, at Springfield, Ill., a few days since.

International Courtesies.—The Mayor of Limerick (Ireland,) has invited the Mayor of New York, with others to visit Ireland, during the time of the World's Fair, and to receive from the Corporation there the honors and hospitalities of that ancient city.

Drowned.—We regret to learn that Elton A., eldest son of Mr. Allen A. Cooper, of Lawrence, was drowned yesterday morning. It appears the deceased went to the well to draw a pail of water. The pail was found at the well, and after about three quarters of an hour, the body was hooked up from the bottom. The deceased was eight years old.—Depere Advertiser.

Cincinnati, April 16.

The Convention this evening adopted a resolution declaring the fugitive slave law a flagrant outrage upon the rights of the Federal Constitution, and therefore an act against which the social and political influence of all the people should be arrayed.

Cassius M. Clay of Ky., was called out and remarked briefly that the fugitive slave law ought to be repealed.

The late Rev. Daniel Isaac was both a great wag and a great smoker. "Ha !" there you are," cried a lady, who surprised him one day, with a pipe in his mouth, "at your idol again !" "Yes, madam," replied he, coolly, "burning it !"

Mrs. Boots, of Pennsylvania, has left her husband, Mr. Boots, and strayed to parts unknown. We presume that a pair of boots are rights and lefts. We cannot say, however, that Mrs. Boots is right, but there is no mistake that Boots is left.

Specimens of old English Manners.—In the reign of James I., men and women wore looking-glasses publicly; the men as brooches or ornaments in their hats; and the women at their girdles, or sometimes (like the ladies of our day,) in the centre of their fans, which were then made of feathers inserted into silver or ivory tubes.

At feasts, every guest brought his own knife, and a whetstone was placed behind the door, upon which he sharpened his own knife as he entered.

In 1564, a Dutchman, named Wm. Boonen, brought the first coach into England; and it is said, the sight of it put both horses and man into amazement. Some said it was a crab-shell, brought out of China; and some imagined it to be one of the Pagan temples, in which the Cannibals adored the Devil.

Wrong—Very.—The Courier local, in speaking of to-night's performance at the Museum, says:

"The bill for this evening embraces "Love's Sacrifice" and the 'Alpine Maid.'"

Now, we know nothing of "Love's Sacrifice," but we consider it decidedly wrong for Bill to embrace the "Alpine Maid."—Buffalo Republic.

The New York cockney who couldn't understand how they got the steamboats into the lakes out west, was rather green, but he was not quite as verdant as the Englishman who started in the cars, yesterday, for Buffalo, to see the Buffaloes, Indians, and other wild beasts.—Albany Knick.

William Penn did not die a slaveholder, as has been asserted.

The finest powder magazine in the Union is being built at Newport Barracks.

Some of the farmers attending the Cincinnati makets come a distance of from fifty to sixty miles.

PROBATE NOTICE.
In the matter of the estate of John Peters, deceased.
COUNTY COURT, }
Milwaukee County, ss }
ON this eighteenth day of April, A D. 1851, upon reading and filing the petition of James Johnson, administrator of the estate of John Peters, deceased, representing that the personal property of said estate is insufficient to pay the debts thereof, and praying for a license to sell so much of the real estate to said estate belonging as will be sufficient to pay the debts and the expense of administration, It is ordered by the court, that said application be heard, before me, at my office, in the city of Milwaukee, on the 30th day of May next, at ten o'clock A. M.— And it is further ordered, that notice of said application and hearing be given to all persons interested therein, by publishing a copy of this order for four successive weeks, in the "Free Democrat," a newspaper printed in said city, prior to said hearing.

PERIODICALS, &c.

THE BRITISH PERIODICALS,

AND THE FARMER'S GUIDE.

LEONARD SCOTT & CO.

No. 54 Gold street, New-York,

Continue to publish the four leading British Quarterly Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine; in addition to which they have recently commenced the publication of a valuable Agricultural work, called the

"Farmer's Guide to Scientific and Practical Agriculture,"

By Henry Stephens, F. R. S., of Edinburgh, author of the "Book of the Farm," etc, etc; assisted by Jno P. Norton, M. A., New Haven, Professor of Scientific Agriculture in Yale College, etc.

This highly valuable work will comprise two large royal octavo volumes, containing over 1400 pages, with 18 or 20 splendid steel engravings, and more than 600 engravings on wood, in the highest style of the art, illustrating almost every implement of husbandry now in use by the best farmers, the best methods of ploughing, planting, haying, harvesting, &c, the various domestic animals in their highest perfection; in short, the pictorial feature of the book is unique, and will render it of incalculable value to the student of agriculture.

The work is being published in semi-monthly numbers, of 64 pages each, exclusive of the steel engravings, and is sold at 25 cents each, or $5 for the entire work in numbers, of which there will be at least twenty-two.

The British Periodicals re-published are as follows, viz:

LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW, (Conservative,)
EDINBURGH REVIEW, (Whig,)
NORTH BRITISH REVIEW, (Free Church,)
WESTMINSTER REVIEW, (Liberal,) and
BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE (Tory)

Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtons" and "My New Novel," [both by Bulwer,] "My Peninsular Medal," "The Green Hand," and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messrs Scott & Co., so that subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.

THE

OR

MODERN DOMESTIC MEDICINE

BY KEITH IMRAY, M. D.

Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, and Licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh.

AMERICAN EDITION.

One large Octavo Volume, substantially bound.

THIS work presents a concise but clear view of the predisposing causes, premonitory signs, and distinguishing symptoms of disease, with the methods of cure recommended by the most eminent physicians.

The best modes of employing the medicines in general use are faithfully described; and the most approved rules for regulating diet and regimen during the periods of disease and convalescence, are amply furnished.

The art of Preserving Health, embracing special Treatises on Diet, Air, Temperance, Bathing, Clothing, and Exercise, is fully considered.

The publishers of the American edition have introduced Dr. Imray's work with short, illustrated, very complete sketches of Anatomy, Physiology and Surgery; and with directions for the domestic management of the sick, the preparation of their food, and the economy of the sick room, &c. They have also annexed a comprehensive MOTHER'S MEDICAL GUIDE, containing directions for the preservation of health during pregnancy, rules for managing the lying-in-room, and the treatment of infants, including air, clothing, exercise, &c. Also, a large number of valuable prescriptions, arranged for ready application; and a very full classified table of medicines, exhibiting their medicinal properties, doses and uses.

The Index is unusually complete, making the whole a most perfect and valuable work for families.

It can confidently be recommended to physicians and apothecaries, as well as to the public, as a book that will be found singularly convenient for ready reference.

☞ Agents are wanted to circulate the above work. Several counties in Wisconsin not yet occupied. Address

LIFE ASSURANCE.

Ætna Insurance Company, HARTFORD, Conn.—ANNUITY FUND, $150,000.—This well known and long established Company, having organized a new department for LIFE INSURANCE, with an entirely distinct capital, exclusively pledged with its reserved accumulations, for the payment of losses upon Life Insurance only, and in no event liable for the other debts, contracts, or engagements of the Company, is now prepared to issue Policies on Lives, at rates materially reduced from those charged by the Mutual Companies. The leading idea of the system adopted by this Company, is, to ascertain precisely what it is worth to insure a given amount upon a life for a certain time, and to charge precisely that sum, and no more: it is attended with none of those vexatious contingencies which are inseparable from the mutual system—it has nothing to do with scrip dividends or bonuses, the declaration of which upon true and equitable principles, is attended with so much difficulty and perplexity—it is perfectly simple, as well as uniform and equal in all its operations.

The promptness, fairness and liberality which have marked all the dealings of this Company, for a period of thirty years, and the well known character of its officers and directors, afford the surest guaranty that its affairs will be so managed as to afford to the assured that ultimate safety and security which is of first importance in Life Assurance.

Policies will be granted payable after death, or upon the party's arriving at a specified age, at his option; in either case, free from the claims of creditors The usual extra risks will be assumed by this Company at reasonable rates.

Pamphlets containing Rates of Premium, and information in relation to the plan of operations, and all necessary papers to effect Insurance, may be obtained at the Agency of this Company.
